New P. O. Building for Central-Locals

Central is soon to have a new brick post office building. The dirt was broken last week for the foundation. It is to be erected between the old post office and the Bank of Central and is to be a two story building with offices upstairs.

J. L. Carson, Central's hustling and efficient contractor, is to do the work. Most of the brick are on the ground and we expect soon to see Uncle Sam's business in the new building. J. N. Morgan is to have the building erected.

Those of the soldier and sailor visitors to Central the past week were Marvin Lawrence, Edgar Martin, Paul Duckett, Henry King, Clement Kelley and S. W. Clayton, of the army and F. Van Clayton, of the navy.

H. E. Seaborn, chairman of this district of the War Savings Stamp campaign, is doing excellent work. He has already sold several hundred dollars worth of stamps himself, and at the close of the campaign we expect to hear Mr. Seaborn make a good report, for he has been an efficient and untiring worker in the Liberty Bonds and Red Cross campaigns.

New Winthrop Scholarship

While attending the state short course at Winthrop College last week, the scholarship winning women and girls of the home demonstration clubs decided to make possible an education for some canning club girl by giving a two-year scholarship. The requirements for this scholarship are the same as those for the regular state scholarships offered by Winthrop College, except that the girl must have been a member of the canning club for at least two years.

With Pickens County Boys Under the Flag

(Under this head The Sentinel expects to publish from time to time interesting items and letters from Pickens county soldiers. We now have several letters on hand and would be glad to have others which will be of interest to the public.)

From Homer Sutherland

Nantes, France,
Sunday, May 26th 1918.

My Dear Mother:—Your letter dated April 27 came today and I was sure glad to hear from you, for your last letter was a little discouraging, but this one smoothed things over in good shape. I knew it would turn out this way because you have always been my friend in everything else and I knew you would be this.

We are now allowed to tell the folks at home where we are located in France. We are now in Nantes about 40 miles from the coast. It is a city of about 300,000 people, I think; looks very much like Charleston in some respects, especially the buildings; they are all very old, some of them are actually falling down from age. The streets are very narrow, all paved with cobblestones; some places there are no sidewalks; all are very narrow—from two to three feet wide in most places.

The funniest thing I see is the wooden shoes worn by the poor class of people, just made of a chunk of wood and look like little canoes. The people here drink wine just as the people in America do coffee or milk. Ice cream is unknown; haven't seen any since I left the states; no soda fountains—nothing but wine rooms and they are about every other door.

Our barracks here are fine, have good beds, the buildings are built of concrete and cement floors, have a firstclass bath with shower baths, hot and cold water. Our grub is good enough, I guess it is as good as could be expected.

The nearest I have been to church is right now. There is a bunch of Negro troops here and one of them is a preacher, so they are having preaching in the mess hall. Of course it can be heard all over the camp and then some. The reason I haven't been to church is that I can't understand anything they say; however, it might do me good if I would go and just look on. I have a pretty hard time "getting by" here, but a lot of fun. Can't even say "howdy" to one when I pass them on the street—I simply wave my hand and grunt.

I haven't heard from any one but you and my girl since I came here. Got your letter and hers the same day. Did she write to you? In an old letter she wrote me at Camp Merritt, N. J., said she was going to write you. The letter followed me over as I only stayed in Camp Merritt two days.

I have written all I can think of, so here's hoping that you and all the rest are well and that I will hear from you often. Don't worry about me because I'm going to stay straight, also I'm coming back. Give all the folks my love.

Your loving son,
Homer.
